Highways Battered by Trucks, Says Senator

Motor Bill Battle Will Start Tuesday Next

Sacramento, March 9.—Hearings on the motor vehicle act and gasoline bill will begin next Tuesday. The measure, introduced by Senator Arthur H. Breed of Oakland, will meet with little opposition in the senate, it is said. The fight will be in the assembly.

The motor-truck contingent is protesting against the reduction of weights of trucks from 30,000 lbs. to 22,000.

Senator Breed claims that trucks yield a revenue of only 2 per cent to the motor vehicle fund, and probably do 75 per cent of the damage to the roads.

Leaves Neat Sum to Boost Political Economy

Berkeley, March 9.—According to the terms of the will of Mrs. Julia E. Dunn, the university will receive $25,000 for the establishment of a chair of political economy, known as the Newton Booth chair.

West Side Pioneers to Hold Reunion

Pioneers of Point Richmond are invited to attend a reunion of old settlers at the First Methodist church tomorrow night.

Activities, reminiscences and a good program will start at 7 p. m. Pioneers are asked to bring baskets. Mrs. James Bly and Mrs. C. T. Cramer, committee.

Jack Breen in Hospital at Sacramento

The friends of Jack Breen are glad to learn that he is improving in health at a Sacramento hospital, and that he will be able to return to Richmond in a couple of weeks. Breen has conducted a bicycle business at 119 Macdonald for a number of years and is one of the successful business men in the vehicle game.

Hard Luck Repeats and Follows Gilbert

Percy Gilbert is beginning to think that some strange and peculiar "nemesis" is following him.

Saturday night the apartment house in which he and his family were living at Third and Main streets caught fire. Luckily the furniture was saved, but with a wife and three children Gilbert was up against it for a home. He has been out of employment nine months, being one of the shopmen who are striving for better conditions. The commissary department of the shopmen have taken an interest in the Gilberts, who are now in a new home and happy.

PERSONAL MENTION

L. C. Blessing is making extensive improvements on the north annex to the Windsor hotel. He is converting the annex into apartments.

J. W. Hughes a rancher from Shandon, San Luis county, who owns a fine ranch there, was in town Saturday looking after his 6th street property.

Uncle Sam to "Take It Out in Trade" No Cash

Washington, March 9.—The bill presented by the U.S. government for expenses for the watch on the Rhine is $255,000,000. Inasmuch as it is impossible to collect that much money from Germany, who formerly agreed to pay the bill for the occupation of the Rhine, it is understood that chemicals will be offered in payment.

Orinda Park Tract Is Destined to Be a Paradise

Orinda Park, March 9.—The Orinda Park Development Co. will give a luncheon at the historic De Laveaga home in Orinda Park tract in the near future, at which prominent state and county officials of Contra Costa and Alameda will be present.

Orinda Park surrounds Lake Orinda, and for climate and scenic attractions has all residential districts excelled in central California, say the 350 settlers who have established homes there. No residence there has cost less than $4000, many as high as $10,000.

A golf course is under way similar to that of the Mt. Diablo country club. In addition to this, a lake is being formed of large dimensions, capable of containing 35,000,000 gallons of water, with all the bathing and aquatic amusements that one could wish for, a real paradise for those who seek health and amusement.

Gasoline Profits Are Exposed by Dawson

Sacramento, March 9.—Assemblyman Dawson of Los Angeles stated on the floor of the house that independent refiners are giving service station retailers a discount of 4 cents a gallon on gasoline, which, with 3 cents a gallon margin between the wholesale and retail prices, yields the dealer 7 cents a gallon profit.

Grand Opening of Winters Building

The grand opening of the Winters building at 11th and Macdonald Wednesday night was attended by hundreds of citizens, and pronounced one of the finest structures of the kind in the eastbay district. A fine program was rendered, including dancing.

Woman Found Dead in Mud Flats at Stege

The body of Marie Gerletti, 320 S. 50th street, was found yesterday by the police and a searching party, the mud flats opposite the cap works at Stege. She was the young wife of Ben Gerletti. She committed the suicidal act during the night when the tide was in. She was mentally deranged.

Buttons and Buckles From Paper. Buttons, buckles, ornaments used in trimming hats, etc., have been made in Austria from hard paper or cardboard by a new process, recently developed to a commercial state. The articles are first made from the paper and then impregnated with gelatin or a solution of varnish or lacquer and then treated in a bath of formaldehyde, which hardens the gelatin. Another method is to treat the paper first and then stamp the various articles from it by a special process. Exchange.

Henry Ford Sells Coke at $8; Says He's Doing Well

Detroit, March 8.—Henry Ford is planning to extend his railroad (the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton) into the coal fields of West Virginia, where he owns extensive coal properties. Mr. Ford says: "We would haul coal to Detroit, make the product into coke, and sell it at a reasonable figure."

It plans for the extension go through, the entire line will be electrified.

Ford is now selling coke at $8 a ton, while coal dealers in Detroit are selling it at $18 a ton. Ford claims he is making money.

A Few Smiles—Stolen and Home-Made

One of Speaker Frank Merriam's Humorous Campaign Stories Told at the St. Francis

Speaker Frank Merriam, when campaigning for Governor Richardson, to introduce himself and get his audience in a "receptive mood," told this one:

A poor printer was shy on equipment. He needed a linotype. He had not the "wherewithal," not enough to make the first payment.

He was advised to tackle the local banker, a cold-blooded individual, whose slogan was "Safety First—and Last."

The printer finally secured an audience with the banker, who glared at him and asked how he ever expected to pay off a loan of $3000 with only three subscribers to his paper—the preacher, postmaster and school teacher.

It looked blue for the printer; the hard-eyed banker would never soften—in fact one of his eyes was artificial, an exact duplicate of the natural one.

The printer was about to leave in disappointment when the banker weakened, and said:

"I'll give you a chance. I have one glass eye—if you guess which one it is, you get the loan."

It was a hard one, but the type guessed correctly and won the loan.

"How did you know which was the glass eye?" asked the banker. "Why, it looked more sympathetic than the other," answered the printer.

What Zeb Anticipates

Zeb says: "You can call it Knottville if you like, but when we build houses around our flock of chickens, then you'll be to late to get in on the ground floor."

He Could Not "Leggo" the Box, Pastor Brown—Rastus, how is it that you have given up going to church?

Rastus—"Well, sah, it's dis way: I likes to take an active part, and I used to pass the collection basket, but dey's give the job to Brother Green, who was in the world war."

Pastor Brown—"In recognition of his heroic service, I suppose."

Rastus—"No, sah. I reckon he got dat job in recknisen o' not havin' but one hand."

Ex-Champion James J. Jeffries Reported "Broke"

Los Angeles, March 9.—James J. Jeffries, former world heavyweight champion pugilist, and said to be worth nearly a million, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, listing his liabilities at $292,183 and his assets, mostly real estate, at $130,950.

Jeffries' ring earnings during his palmy days were over a half million dollars.

In his contest with Johnson at Reno in 1910, in which he was defeated, his share of the purse was $116,000.

Jeffries has gone the route like many of the sports of his kind. He's "dead broke."

Big Freighter Takes on Cargo at City Wharf

The 13,000 ton freighter Farrallone, anchored at the municipal wharf the past three days taking on cargo, left yesterday for the Orient. She is one of the largest vessels that was ever docked at Richmond's municipal wharf.

New Telephone Book Shows Richmond's Growth

Manager George Calvert issued his new telephone book for Richmond Wednesday. The book is quite an improvement over former editions, the "telegraph and local news" features proving that George belongs to the "craft."

The increase in directory names is most interesting. In perusing a telephone book we're usually in a hurry and are only looking for the names of Smith, Jones, or Brown, and when we spot them, and get their "numbers," the book goes on the peg again.

Two things should have been printed in his book, which he no doubt had overlooked—the stock and produce markets.

OLD PARTITION OF EUROPE

Happenings, Well Authenticated, Go Beyond All That Is Known of Written History.

Scythia was the name given by the ancient Greeks to the southeast part of modern Europe, between the Carpathians and the Caucasus. The Scythians are described as nomads, who lived in wagons. They fought chiefly on horseback. From Herodotus' description of their appearance they seem to have been of Mongolian race, but the tendency of modern authorities is to regard them as Aryans. About 510 B. C. the Persian King Darius attempted to conquer Scythia, but unsuccessfully. In time the Scythians in the south of modern Russia became cultivators of the soil, and were to some extent influenced by Greek culture from the Greek cities of the region. Eventually they were overcome by the Sarmatians. But another branch of the race invaded Persia late in the Second century B. C., and established the Indo-Scythian kingdom of Sacastane and in the following century they invaded northern India, and there they maintained themselves for five centuries. Their kings were warm supporters of northern Buddhism, and an attempt has been made to show that Buddha was of Scythian descent. The Jats of India and the Rajputs have been assigned the same ancestry. There is no mention of their ever having been conquered by the Romans.

Safeguarding the Miner.

To protect the miner against his ancient enemy, inflammable gas, a mining engineer has improved the standard type of miner's lamp. He has added a device which causes the lamp to emit a loud singing note as soon as the atmosphere becomes charged with inflammable gas.

Richmond Activities; News of the Week

Byron's $150,000 Fire Destroys Business Portion

Byron, March 9.—The result of Monday's fire is estimated at a loss of $150,000. The debris is being cleared away and rebuilding will begin at once.

There were seven buildings destroyed before the fire was under control. The structures destroyed were:

The "Byron Times," newspaper plant owned by Harry Hammond; a portion of the mechanical equipment was saved.

Byron postoffice building burned to the ground, but all the mail and part of the equipment was saved.

Santos Hotel, Byron's principal hostelry of twenty rooms.

L. V. Plumley's merchandise store.

Ellis Howard's butcher shop.

Barber shop and shoe repair shop in S. M. Cabral building.

The fire started when a gasoline container, used in connection with the water heating tank in Robert's barber shop, exploded.

You can't keep success from a man who works and is on the level.

Who Pays This Big Sum? The Dear People, of Course

The Santa Fe railroad company paid $14,836,000 in taxes last year. Finally, though, everyone who goes and comes on that road pays a part of that sum. Everyone who buys anything that's shipped in over the road pays a part. Everyone who ships any freight from the state must bear his part of the tax. All other railroads are taxed just the same.

It is said that the ultimate consumer pays all the taxes. But who is the ultimate consumer?

The family doctor consumes his three meals a day—good meals, expensive meals let us say. He must wear tailored clothes—he must drive a stylish car. He must add enough to his bill to cover the cost of what he consumes.

The thread runs all through a tangled skein and is hard to follow. Anyway, we know that it is we, and not the corporations, who, in the long run, pay the taxes.

Police After Gamblers Three in Net Pay Fines

Chief Police Wood is gradually closing in on the sporting element. Three joints were raided Wednesday and proprietors arrested and fined. G. Biale, who operates a pool room on Washington street at the Point, was nicked for $50.

J. M. Bozeman, who operates in the former postoffice building in Sixth street, pool and billiards, put up $50 bail; ditto F. M. Brown of B. street.

Chief Wood says that smoke screens and barrages will avail the sporting element nothing—that day by day, and night by night, he will be on their trail.

Camouflaged fronts and junk of all kinds intended to obstruct the view of backgrounds, or contrivances "innocently" arranged to screen evaders of the city's ordinances, are marked.

Contra Costa County to Get Bonus

Sacramento, March 9.—Contra Costa county is to have its share of fees paid the state for the six months from August 1 to January 31, inclusive. The amount is $2059.58, says Wm. H. Marsh of the state motor vehicle department. Contra Costa county had 8375 automobiles January 31.

El Cerrito Destitute Family Made Comfortable

The McCauly family of El Cerrito were made happy and comfortable when they were given a comfortable home for three months and donated the receipts of the whist party for their benefit, a purse of $150.35. Much praise is due the committee, Mesdames Larsen, Scott and Schoute.

Chicken Pie Supper

The ladies bible class of the First Baptist church announce a chicken pie supper, date to be given later, for the benefit of the new church building fund. Mrs. Frank Spaulding of 726 Ninth street is active in the work of the church, and served a delicious lunch at a meeting in her home Wednesday afternoon.

The Appealing Charm of Perfect Health

Sileam, Colo.—"I was sick for two years, could not regain my old time strength after motherhood, had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep. I lost fifteen pounds in weight. My friends all thought I had lung trouble. I got so thin and pale. All the medicine the doctors gave me failed to help me. One day I read about Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and decided to try it. I got a bottle right away and after the first few doses I began to feel better. I took four bottles and it certainly did wonders for me. I can't say too much for this 'Medical Discovery' and always recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. A. A. White.

Turks Ran War on Shoestring

National Debt Is Smallest of Any Nation Participating in Great Conflict.

STRICT ECONOMY IS OBSERVED

Angora Government Resists Temptation to Print Up Any New Money—Needs But Little Foreign Money or Loans.

Paris.—Turkey is the least bankrupt of any nation that has taken an active part in the world war, according to information reaching here, not excepting England or France. The chief reason is that apparently she has conducted her wars since 1914 with the strictest economy. The present Angora or nationalist government, which has been fighting the Greeks and holding off the allied powers since 1919, has resisted the temptation to print up any new money.

The total prewar and war debt of Turkey, including the charges that may be set against her at Lausanne or in any treaty of peace to pay damages to foreign nationals, is estimated to run barely above $1,000,000,000. This sum is regarded as ridiculously low when it is remembered that, by way of comparison, France owes the United States a war debt of $3,400,000,000, and Germany owes the allies approximately $34,000,000,000.

European Interest Political.

From a European point of view, the interest in Turkey is partly political, especially in war times, and largely financial in peace times. American interest also has been directed toward Turkey in the last few years, her tobacco crops, if nothing else, being bought up by American firms.

An analysis of Turkey's finances shows she became bankrupt in 1874, after foolish suits and their corrupt ministers had contracted unproductive foreign loans. In 1881 Abdul Hamid, in order to satisfy these loans, turned over the salt and other monopolies to an institution known as the public debt, to be directed by foreigners until their debts should be paid.

In one way or another Turkey owed abroad in 1914, 105,000,000 Turkish pounds. This unit had a prewar value of $4.40. Also she had a funded debt of 152,000,000 Turkish pounds. Of the foreign debt, roughly the equivalent of $800,000,000. France held 60 per cent, Germany 21 per cent and Great Britain, Holland and Belgium about 19 per cent.

Turkey's war debt expenses have been described as "the most amazing thing in the history of world war finance." She ran her war on a shoestring. When the army needed anything, it seems to have been either requisitioned from the civil population or else the army simply went without it. And this army often numbered 1,000,000 men. In 1915 there

ORDERED EDITH CAVELL SHOT

Blame for Nurse's Execution Placed on Von Sauberzweig.

Had Power to Stay Execution in Order to Give Time for Appeal to Emperor for Mercy, but Refused to Exercise It.

London.—Responsibility for the execution of Edith Cavell, the British nurse shot during the war in Brussels, has now definitely been placed at the door of General von Sauberzweig, according to the Brussels correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

The death of Miss Cavell has generally been attributed to General von Bissing, at that time governor of Brussels, but a letter from Baron von der Lancken to the German foreign secretary, which has but recently been made public, reveals that official of this slur on his name, the correspondent writes.

was one internal loan of 18,000,000 Turkish pounds (about $79,000,000 at the exchange of that time). Then there was a paper money issue of 154,881,400 Turkish pounds, secured by German government treasury bonds, payable 15 years after the war. Certain supplies in limited quantities were bought in Germany.

These figures have a distinct bearing on the future for those Americans or others who wish to live or do business in Turkey.

Has Splendid Future.

According to one American financial expert who has traveled all through Turkey, as rarely do the majority of foreign visitors, if Turkey secures a stable political government and if she frees herself from foreign control, there is no reason why she cannot intensify her agriculture and prosper.

Strange as it may seem to the casual observer of the course of postwar nations, this expert asserted Turkey needs but little foreign money or loans. Here is a problem rather of a sound domestic policy; encouraging the creation of domestic capital through better banks; the opportunity for proper land mortgages, and progressive agriculture.

Many Americans in Europe are watching keenly the trend of politics leading to a peace with Turkey. If new Turkey gets the peace she demands, and if the Angora men of the steady sort, such as Mustafa Kemal Pasha and Gen. Ismet Pasha, keep control, it is believed Americans will do better in Turkey than any other nationality.

These Turks take the point of view that those who are not for them are against them, and they have been made to feel during the four years that Admiral Mark L. Bristol has been United States high commissioner in Constantinople that they were not friendless when dealing with Americans.

MACKAY FLYING TROPHY

The much-coveted Mackay army trophy, awarded annually to the officers making the most meritorious flight during the year, has been presented to Lieut. John A. McElroy and Oakley G. Old Blacksmith Shop Goes.

Sunbury, Pa.—Because automobiles don't wear horseshoes, the old ranter blacksmith shop, which has stood for eighty years, made way for the modern march of progress when W. H. Auten, its owner, declaring there was no more need for the cross-roads blacksmith shop, started to tear it away.

PICK NEW STYLE IN TIN BONNETS

Army Authorities Plan New Head Protection for Soldiers.

New Effects in Iron Millinery for Future War Seasons Trend Toward the German Coal-Scuttle Mode.

Washington.—Army "tin hat" designers are working on new effects in iron millinery for future war seasons. The trend is toward the German coal-scuttle mode. Snappy inverted soup-bowl models, highly popular in A. E. F. front-line circles in France during the season of 1917-18, have been ruled out of fashion.

The military bonnet makers have not as yet settled definitely on any particular model. They are doing a lot of scientific experimenting first. But already it is clear that if John Doughboy and his buddies are to get the maximum protection possible in the future their anti-barrage headgear will have to assume the general lines of grandma's sunbonnet. The soup-bowl model was more "chic," admittedly, but it didn't get the back of the neck and the jawbone under cover.

The most favored model now under consideration in the army hatshop is not quite so coal-scuttlelike as was the German fashion, and it weighs a lot less. But it has a sweeping curve of gracefully draped steel plate around the back to protect the neck, and it is planned to carry this forward on each side down almost to the jawbone line. Add to that a straight brim of severe lines, but with a double scallop cut out over the eyes, to permit a "buddy" crawling under fire to see his way from shell hole to shell hole without exposing much of his face and you have a general idea of the forthcoming style.

The new helmet has proved itself already in one way. It will stop a steel-jacketed pistol bullet at 80 feet. Carrying it on the hip, however, would be like packing the family dishpan, and it is proposed to leave the iron hat in the future with the company train until the need for it is urgent.

A DOZEN—NO MORE

By FANNY RICHARDSON

(© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

This is just an ordinary love story, which began with a clothespin. A very ordinary clothespin it was, too—just like all the other clothespins in Mary's clothespin bag. The bag contained a dozen pins. Mary couldn't afford more, but she did need many, because she had only a few clothes—a very, very few.

One evening Mary had just finished washing and she opened the window to hang out her laundry. "Looks like rain," she said. "I'll have to wait till old brown rag again tomorrow. Oh, how I hate it! But I don't see any chance of getting another. Well, the rain won't hurt these things, anyway. Do 'em good."

And rain it did. The following morning, when she looked out at her washing, she could hardly see it through the raindrops. But she did see something that made her frantically open the window. Her beloved blue serge was hanging by one pin, dragging in the mud.

Mary was tearful. The dress was ruined—and the clothespin had never gone back on her before. How could it have happened? She poked her head out, looking on the ground for the missing pin. It was not in sight, but, as she lifted her head, she saw a line close by hers on which dangled two blue socks.

"So he borrowed my clothespin, did he? The horrid, hateful thing! He might have had the decency to ask me, but to deliberately take it to hang up his old blue socks—"

She did not finish, but walked out of the room, the dress still on her arm, and knocked noisily on the door of the room adjoining. Hearing someone moving, but no response, she knocked again. In a moment she had opened the door. A young man in a bathrobe was crouched near the window, apparently sewing. He looked at her questioningly.

"What's the matter? House afire, or something?"

"No," she cried, almost sobbing. "But it might as well be. Look what you did to my dress!"

He seemed perplexed. "What do you mean? I didn't spoil your dress."

"You did," she retorted. "You—your old blue stockings! Two dresses are all I have—no my name. I can't buy another. Now if my old brown one gives out, I'll have to go to—"

The young man's face cleared. "Oh, blue stockings—but I didn't do anything. However, I know just how you feel. If anything happened to my other suit I would have to go to—stay in the house, too."

"I know what we'll do," she exclaimed. "Give me one of your suits. I'll hang it on the line for the rest of the day the way you left my dress, dragging on the side of the house. It's only fair!"

"But you don't understand," he protested. "There were four clothespins holding up your dress last night, even after I borrowed one. Anyway, how did I know it was going to rain?"

Mary was indignant. "The dress is ruined, that's the point. It takes five clothespins to dry serge. Otherwise it hangs funny—and besides, the line sagged on account of the wet."

He turned toward the bed, pulled out a suitcase and carefully took out a pearl gray suit. Mary said to herself it was the pearl gray suit she had ever seen. "Oh," she exclaimed, catching her breath a little. "I didn't know. Please put it back." But he thrust it into her hands and she found herself closing his door behind her.

Mary left the boarding house that morning without any breakfast. She had thrown the dress in the tub to soak and left the young man's suit neatly folded in her trunk. It was frightful of her to have been so silly, she told herself, over an old three-dollar dress, when his suit had cost—how much she hated to think. And yet he had said he had only one other—

"She did not see him again for a week. Friday he knocked at the door just as she was hanging out the serge dress, which she had cleansed by soaking."

"I say," he blurted out. "I rather like your new dress. Couldn't you dry it and we'll go to the 'movies'?"

Mary could feel the blood rushing to her cheeks. "But the dress isn't new. It's the old one. It's been soaking a week. I didn't think the stains were going to come out like this."

"By the way, where is the suit? You weren't supposed to keep it after you'd given it that mud bath. You've kept it a week."

"But say, I've been scraping around since I last saw you. Got a raise—had to. Knew I had only one suit and I didn't relish staying at home all day, even if you did happen to be on the other side of the partition!"

She laughed. "Well, I wouldn't have been, because I have a brand new dress myself! I'll put it on for the 'movies.'"

"Look here a minute!"

She opened up the old battered trunk and carefully lifted out her suit. "What you never touched it! Hush up! We're dining out," he cried. "Dining out! It wouldn't be right. You can't afford it."

"Certainly I can afford it. Think of it! I've got three suits now!"

BOY SCOUTS

BOY SCOUTS' ANNIVERSARY

The Boy Scouts of America throughout the entire country celebrated the week of the thirtieth anniversary of the movement February 8-15. Demonstrations of scoutcraft, rallies, parent-and-son meetings, radio messages of endorsement of scouting by prominent people, and the taking of the scout oath by well-known men had a place on the program. Fifty thousand cards containing a splendid endorsement of the movement were placed in street cars throughout the country. Thousands of billboard posters picturing scout training appeared in the different cities. The car cards and posters were the donation of staunch supporters of the movement to help bring scouting's message to every American man, woman and child.

One of the most impressive acts of the entire week occurred on the evening of February 8 when every scout and scout leader throughout the country reaffirmed the scout oath:

"On my honor, I will do my best:
"1. To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the scout law;
"2. To help other people at all times;
"3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

In many communities the respective days of anniversary week were devoted to scouting in connection with the school, the church, the home, and the community. Special demonstrations were given showing what scouting is doing to co-operate with each of these institutions. As the public grows more familiar with the scout program of character building and citizenship training, it demands—"Why are there not more boy scouts?" In response to this question, the Boy Scouts of America made an extraordinary effort to make room in the ranks by anniversary week for 100,000 new members. This effort was termed the anniversary round-up. In this connection every scout of the country over had an opportunity of doing a national good turn, by bringing to the ranks one more boy to advance in the work of good citizenship. Indications point to an over-subscription of the quota of 100,000. With the increase proposed, the total membership of the Boy Scouts of America will reach the half million mark.

President Harding, in his appreciation of the work of the Boy Scouts of America and his interest in seeing more boys members of the organization, authorized the presentation in his name of a large silk American flag to each region attaining its quota of increase in membership for the anniversary round-up; a handsome set of silk streamers—red, white and blue—to each of the 600 local councils that reaches its goal; and a similar but smaller set of streamers to each troop that enrolls the specified number of new members. President Harding is the honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America.

HAS FAITH IN BOYS

A group of scouts unsolicited, recently took the responsibility of guarding a certain dangerous crossing, of getting little children over in safety. These boys didn't tell anybody of what they were doing. They weren't looking for credit—they were just doing.

Last winter a scout stood guard over a live wire for several hours on a freezing night. In passing, he had seen the danger, and on his own initiative guarded passersby until the repairmen came. He froze his ear, but he did his duty as a scout.

And when the boy scout organization through its chief scout executive, said: "We claim there are no naturally bad boys, though there are idle, misdirected or undirected, mischievous, heedless or mistaken boys," it based that assertion, and the following one on just such facts as these quoted:

"We claim that if you give a boy plenty of interesting, worthwhile things to do in his out-of-school or after-work hours, that the chances are he will have little inclination to malicious mischief or vicious amusement."

AID INJURED BOY

While playing, Robert McKnight of Bowling Green took a big jump and his foot landed upon a broken bottle. A large artery was cut and began to bleed profusely. Scout Norman Leonis was present. Following his first aid instructions, he promptly stopped the flow of blood by use of a tourniquet. He then took the injured boy upon his back and carried him to his home.

ROTARY USES SCOUT MOTTO

In conformity with the scout slogan, "Do a Good Turn Daily," boy scouts of Tampa, Fla., have performed excellent service to their community. The boys declare that the old saying, "Give to the world the best you have, and the best will come back to you," is especially significant in their case. For now come their friends, the Rotarians, at a recent state convention with a memento coin on which is stamped the motto, "Do a Good Turn Daily to Some Boy."

SINGS WITH JOY WHILE AT WORK

Mrs. Banes Says Tanlac Ended Indigestion, Sourness and Palpitations and Made Labors Light.

"Tanlac has helped me so much I wish everyone suffering like I did would follow my suggestion to use it," said Mrs. Sadie Banes, 2037 Washington St., Kansas City, Mo., the other day. "Before I took Tanlac my appetite was so poor it seemed beyond cultivation, and the little I managed to eat gave me indigestion and caused awful sourness and palpitation. I was simply miserable from nervous headaches, dizziness and knife-like pains in my back, always slept poorly, and felt so bad that at times I just had to quit my housework and lie down."

"Tanlac was so well suited to my case that it has only taken three bottles, half of the full treatment, to restore me to perfect health. It makes me so happy to be without an ache, pain or trouble of any kind that I go about my work humming and singing. I just can't help rejoicing over what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 25 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

HAD "MRS. GRUNDY" IN MIND

It is to Be Feared There Are Many in America Like This Foolish Young Wife.

George F. Baker, the New York financier and philanthropist, who has just given $1,000,000 to the Metropolitan museum, is very much opposed to the American sin of extravagance.

"Sometimes," said Mr. Baker at a recent dinner party, "the American man is driven to extravagance by his wife."

"Deflation be damned," young Mrs. Brown said to her husband one morning. "If we move into that cheap house in the suburbs what will our friends think?"

"I don't care what they think," said Mr. Brown. "It's the only thing to do unless we want to run hopelessly into debt. Besides, it's a comfortable little joint—far more comfortable than this noisy flat."

"Yes, that's just like you men," said Mrs. Brown bitterly. "As long as you're comfortable, and can pay every week's little bill as quick as it comes, in you don't care what the world thinks."

VICTIM OF HIS OWN ERROR

American Tourist Really Had No Right to Complain of Extortion, Under the Circumstances.

"Ambassador Herrick," said a returned tourist, "told me in Paris that a good deal of the so-called extortion we tourists complain about is due to misunderstandings."

"He instanced the case of a tourist in Brussels who got on a tramcar to make the whole journey round the exterior boulevards. When the conductor asked him where he wanted to go he said:

"Toute le journee."

"He thought that this meant, 'The whole journey,' but it really meant, 'All day long'; and so the conductor, putting him down as an eccentric, gave him 15 tickets and charged him 15 francs."

"If you're francs! What an extortion! The tourist from that day on couldn't knock Europe and European grafters hard enough."

Britain's Arable Area Reduced.

The arable area of Great Britain since 1913 has been continuously reduced. Land now under the plow is not much greater in extent than immediately before the war, according to a report from the board of agriculture. The total area under crops and grass showed less change in 1922 than for several years past, the figures being 20,025,000 acres in 1922, against 20,140,000 in 1921. The arable area, however, was reduced by 308,000 acres, while the permanent grass area was increased by 180,000 acres.

Habit Clings.

One of the clubs elected as secretary the credit man of a store. After the officers had been installed they were asked to speak. The president and vice president spoke, hoping for the success of the club under their administration. Then it was the credit man's turn.

"You'll soon hear from me," he said. "It's just time for our annual dues to be paid. Your statements will be mailed to you and please remit as soon as possible."

Eclipse of the Moon.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

This May Happen Some Day.

"I see where a judge had a culprit before him who acknowledged that he assaulted the plaintiff, but he got off with a mild rebuke."

"What won his honor's sympathies?"

"The culprit caught a musical comedy actor outside of a theater and made him admit that there are other streets in the world besides Old Broadway."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Four Interesting Letters

Cortland, N. Y.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was weak and wanted to become strong and have a child. My husband read about it in the 'Cortland Standard' and thought it might help me. It certainly did for I now have a lovely boy fifteen months old who weighs forty pounds. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my friends and you can certainly use my testimonial in your little books and in the newspapers, as it might help to make some other childless home happy by the presence of little ones as it has done mine."—Mrs. CLAUDE P. A Message to Mothers
Hamilton, Ohio.—"I have known about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound since it first came out, having taken it when I was younger and suffering from a weakness and backache. Lately I have taken it again to strengthen me before the birth of my child, as I was troubled with pains in my back and a lifeless, weak feeling. I think if mothers would only take your wonderful medicine they would not dread childbirth as they do. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH FALCOW, Jr., 522 E. 11th Street, Hamilton, Ohio.

St. Louis, Mo.—"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me seven years ago. I was run down and had a weakness such as women often have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after being married sixteen years became the mother of a sweet little girl. I now have four lovely children—three fine boys and the little girl six years old. I had longed for children all the while and wept many a day and envied every woman with a child. I was 36 years old when my first baby was born. I recommend Lydia E. ## Movies That Are Really Safe.

A movie picture shown in the home, by the aid of a machine which has no more to do with lights or inflammable things than a typewriter or a sewing machine, is an accomplished fact.

The movie, the invention of an Englishman, throws pictures on to its marvelous mirror simply by means of ordinary daylight or the artificial light used to illuminate the room.

The pictures are seen with extraordinary clearness. It depends on the viewer—who is also the operator—whether the picture is a slow-motion affair or one of normal movement.

There is more resentment in being fooled by a good-hearted man than by a "slick" one.

Best judges of human nature would rather make money out of it than make fun of it.

How to figure your Gas Bill

The top, or latest Meter reading, is 61,300 Cubic Feet (CF). The previous Meter reading is 58,500 Cubic Feet (CF). Subtract one from the other; the difference 2,800 Cubic Feet (CF) is the amount of Gas that has been measured by your Meter in the period between the two readings and is the amount for which this customer was charged.

Now suppose you refer to your latest Gas Bill.

If you will divide the total amount charged in dollars and cents on your bill by the number of Cubic Feet (CF) the bill shows you used, you will know the cost of one Cubic Foot (CF). Multiply by 1,000 and you have the rate per 1,000 Cubic Feet (CF) which is the unit of Gas measurement.

Ask at any P G and E office for Free Booklet, "How to Read Your Gas Meter." By following its easy to understand directions you will be able to check up your own use of Gas.

It's Up to the 7000

About 70% of the university's ten thousand students refuse to try to learn. At least, so says one of the U. C. professors. He claims they do come to the university to load their automobiles with book learning.

Never mind, professor; don't worry; 70 per cent of the ordinary college attendants are needed in shops, kitchens and on farms. At the university they will have learned, from the examples set by their teachers if in no other way, neatness in apparel, due care of finger-nails and teeth, personal courtesy, and above all a tact and gentleness that will always make them pleasing to their companions.

That 70% will also have taught sweetness of disposition at their petting parties; the ready "twist of the wrist" which enables one to negotiate easily plow-handles, spades, brooms, and flatirons will have been taught in the athletic field. The science of politics can be picked up during the management of the fraternal orders, and "student management."

All this altho' the unambitious did not learn to read Beowulf in the original.

The faculty should not worry. Its members can get much pleasure, and do no end of good, by devoting themselves to the 30% which they classify as worth while. They are really that, and more. The 30% will amply repay the labor and attention which is their due.

Cronkhite's Forced Retirement

Mr. Ford's Dearborn Independent will be heard from pronto. President Harding has retired Major Cronkhite, the father of the officer who at Camp Lewis (the Independent insists) was murdered by a Jewish subaltern. The Dearborn Independent will rave. Don Quixote charging the windmills wasn't a circumstance to Uncle Henry Ford in a tin lizzie running full speed at the whole Hebrew nation.

Mark L. Requa on Retrenchment

In supporting the retrenchment program of Governor Richardson, Mark L. Requa says:

"Taxation today is the paramount issue before the people, not only of California and the United States, but of the world as well, and the politicians who do not read the handwriting on the wall are going to be treated eventually to a most artistic example of steam rolling, only unlike some steam rollers this one is going to have the public as engineer."

LONG OVERFLOW PIPE

A steel pipe in one piece, nearly 2,000 feet long and 27 inches in diameter, has recently been constructed to serve as an overflow for a reservoir which supplies Victoria. B. C., with water, says an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine. A great deal of trouble had been given by the periodical overflow of this reservoir, as farm lands below it were either inundated or so waterlogged that it was impossible to seed them in the spring. So it was decided to build this outlet, part of which was to be a concrete-lined canal, and the remaining portion made of pipe.

The pipe was made in sections, 20 feet long, at the factory, the plates being rolled to shape and joined by welding. These sections were shipped to the site of the overflow, and were there brought together and held firmly by a clamp of special pattern, which allowed a portion of the joints to be welded while the clamp was still tightly screwed up.

ABOVE AND BEYOND HIM

August—I don't know what to give Elsie as a birthday present. Len—Why not ask her what she wants?

August—No, I can't afford that.

PROBLEM FOR CHEMISTS

Fine aluminum chips, such as are produced in the machining of the aluminum alloys used in motorcar construction, are hard to remelt without excessive loss, a reduction of 40 per cent being common. According to a statement published by the bureau of mines the total loss from this cause throughout the country, with aluminum at its present price, amounts to $600,000. The bureau has published valuable suggestions for minimizing this loss. The main cause of the trouble seems to be the lack of ready coalescence of the metallic globules, and this means that the problem is one of colloid chemistry applied to metals.—Washington Star.

REALLY NO GREAT CHANGE

Anthropologist, It Might Be Surmised, Has Merely Shifted His Point of Occupation.

The curator of anthropology in one of the nation's greatest museums has quit assembling ancient skulls, relates the Los Angeles Times. Likewise he has deserted the good old wife of his own bosom and fled to bohemia. He has gone into Greenwich Village and taken up the work of writing lurid and hectic fiction. All his life he had delved in the dust of the ages. He had been assorting and cataloguing the bones of primal man. He had written prosaic phrases reciting the difference between the femurs of the ancient Egyptians and those of the anthropomorphic inhabitants of the African jungle when all of a sudden he jumps his job and enters the mad life of Greenwich to begin the writing of hot stuff for spicy magazines. The wife is unable to comprehend the corrutions of his noodle and is now applying for a divorce. Yet, when you come to think of it, the jump from a museum of anthropology to Greenwich Village is not a long or strange one. There are as odd and perplexing specimens there as there are in the tombs of the Pharaohs. The professor may still be running true to form.

SHOWED SPEED

Judge—How near were you to the scene of the crime?

Witness—Your honor, when the first shot was fired I was about six feet from the man.

Judge—Six feet? And how far were you away when the second shot was fired?

Witness—Well, can't say exactly, but nearly half a mile.

WHIRLING STARS

Among the most surprising discoveries of modern astronomy is that of double stars, which are so close together that no telescope is able to show them separately, but whose "duplicité" is revealed by their motion around one another. In consequence of this motion, one of the stars may be approaching the earth at the same time that its companion is retreating, and in that case the lines in the spectrum of their light will be "split." Such stars are called "spectroscopic binaries." Very few are known, but the most famous is the star Beta in the constellation Lupus. Two of these binaries are found to be revolving with velocities of 290 and 380 miles per second, respectively.

"GEM" PROVED TO BE GLASS

But for a Time South African Thought He Had Found Biggest Diamond in World.

Imagine thinking for a day or so you had found the biggest diamond in the world and then finding you had been cherishing a bit of worthless glass. A correspondent in Johannesburg reports such a case to the London Daily Mail.

Great excitement was caused at the Bloemhof alluvial diamond diggings a few weeks ago by the discovery of what was believed to be the biggest gem stone in the world.

It was of a lovely aqua-marine blue and weighed 18,000 carats, a giant compared with the famous Cullinan diamond. It was found at the bottom of an alluvial claim on a farm, being well underground and very dirty.

Local enthusiasts whizzed that it was worth a fabulous sum. The stone was finally subjected to tests by a diamond expert.

The expert found it to be simply glass which had not been passed through the annealing process. He thinks it is the product of an imitation gem-stone factory, though the mystery of how it was buried at Bloemhof is still unsolved.

TINY FOOT

She—What do you mean by telling me you had a large fortune? He—Well, it's not so big, but it will look big beside your feet.
